

LEVIN GINSBURG
Privacy Policy for LAWGRAM

Levin Ginsburg ("LG") understands and respects your concerns about privacy. This policy was created to provide you with notice of what information LG may collect, how that information may be used or shared with third parties. Please be sure to read this Privacy Policy before submitting information to us. Your accessing the Levin Ginsburg newsletter ("Lawgram") constitutes your acceptance of these terms and future access following the posting of any changes to these terms constitutes your acceptance of those changes.

COLLECTION OF INFORMATION

We collect information to understand what areas are most popular and what technologies are being used by our visitors. This information helps us to update and improve the information we provide through Lawgram. LG does not use cookies or any persistent tracking methods to collect personally identifiable information or identifiable business information.

LG may collect information by permitting you to communicate directly with us via e-mail. Some of the information that you submit may be personally identifiable, that is, information that can be uniquely identified with you, such as your name, address, e-mail address, domain name and phone number. We do not provide or sell any of this information to third parties.

We reserve the right to change our policy regarding cookies and the collection of information from visitors at any time without advance notice. Should any new policy go into effect, LG will update this policy, and the new policy will apply only to information collected thereafter. Any such policy will permit visitors to "opt out" of our collection of any personally identifying information.

Use of Information

LG does not distribute, sell, share, or otherwise divulge information gathered about Lawgram subscribers to parties not affiliated with LG. LG uses the information voluntarily given to send newsletters and fill hardcopy requests and to better prepare future content based on the interests of users.

Unsubscribe Policy

If, at some point, you no longer wish to receive Lawgrams electronically, please send your request to us at LAWGRAM@lgattorneys.com.

SECURITY

We use reasonable industry standard procedures and processes to safeguard the confidentiality of your identifiable personal information and, from time to time, we evaluate new technologies for safeguarding information. However, when you submit information over the Internet, the information may travel over systems not under our control. Others may intercept or modify the information you are sending.
